Fear and faith, together

"I have a lot of faith and a lot of fear a lot of the time," writes Anne Lamott in Small Victories: Spotting Improbable Moments of Grace (Riverhead Books). As usual, the author tells it like it is.

In Mark 9:14-27, Jesus does that too, spewing frustration about his disciples' inability to heal a boy riddled with convulsions: "You faithless people! ... How long must I put up with you?" Jesus pulls no punches.

When Jesus tells the boy's father, "All things can be done for the one who believes," the man is also surprisingly frank. Had I been desperate for my child's healing, I probably would've fallen all over myself professing more belief than I actually had. But this father replies, "Lord, I believe; help my unbelief." And Jesus heals the boy.

God doesn't expect us to have 100-percent-certain belief all the time. I suspect he finds our honest mix of fear and faith refreshing. And it might reassure other Christians who are struggling, as well. —Heidi Mann

More than skin deep

Gratitude, said Martin Luther, is "the basic Christian attitude." Yet gratitude is much more than a state of mind. Often it's a decision, and it becomes an act of humility when we recognize our depravity — and our need for a Savior.

The 10 disgraced lepers who beg Jesus for mercy (see Luke 17:11-19) are described as allogenes, Greek for "outcast." (All humans, sick with sin, fit that description!) The leper who returned to give thanks received more than just physical healing, according to Scripture. When Jesus says, "Your faith has made you well," he uses the Greek that means "Your faith has saved you." The grateful leper, recognizing his depravity, humbly decides to return and give thanks, knowing — through faith — that his skin and his soul have been healed.

COUNT THEM ONE BY ONE

²⁵ A woman in the crowd had suffered for twelve years with constant bleeding. ²⁶ She had suffered a great deal from many doctors, and over the years she had spent everything she had to pay them, but she had gotten no better. In fact, she had gotten worse. ²⁷ She had heard about Jesus, so she came up behind him through the crowd and touched his robe. ²⁸ For she thought to herself, "If I can just touch his robe, I will be healed." ²⁹ Immediately the bleeding stopped, and she could feel in her body that she had been healed of her terrible condition.

³⁰ Jesus realized at once that healing power had gone out from him, so he turned around in the crowd and asked, "Who touched my robe?"

³¹ His disciples said to him, "Look at this crowd pressing around you. How can you ask, 'Who touched me?'"

³² But he kept on looking around to see who had done it. ³³ Then the frightened woman, trembling at the realization of what had happened to her, came and fell to her knees in front of him and told him what she had done. ³⁴ And he said to her, "Daughter, your faith has made you well. Go in peace. Your suffering is over."

RESPONSE: The Word of God, for the people of God.
